January 13-20, 2006

Bonaire is one of the three Dutch islands near Venezuela. After Curacao, Bonaire is the largest of the five Dutch Antillean islands. Aruba and Curacao are the most famous places of the Leeward Islands because of their beaches, sights and diving. Although Bonaire does not have a lot of tourists, it is a paradise for water sport like scuba diving, snorkeling, windsurfing and water-skiing. All cars at Bonaire have license numbers with DIVER'S PARADISE.

Bonaire is one of the first Caribbean dive destinations that protected its reefs and put in mooring buoys to stop boats from anchoring!
